INTRODUCTION.

An extensive examination of various sources of historical information, during which at least one hundred pages of notes have been taken, has failed to reveal any satisfactory documentary data, from which the early history of this church can be compiled. The absence of the records of the church (if any early records ever existed, and I have yet to be convinced about this), the failure of the early Mohawk settlers to place upon record the deeds and maps relating to their lands, and the destruction of almost all of the Historical manuscripts concerning this locality, in the fire at the State Capitol, have all combined to render this task more difficult. From the abstracts of the Historical manuscripts taken from the published calendars, it can be seen that it is only recently that the last clues concerning this church have finally been lost. If the numerous historians who have written of this church had consulted these manuscripts, instead of spending their time in collecting inaccurate recollections from the local inhabitants, in all probability, the story of this church would have been materially improved. It would be useless to recite in detail the various narratives that have been gathered from traditionary sources, as very few of them agree, unless one historian has quoted from another. The versatility of the tales can well be illustrated by quoting twice from the same author:- Jephtha R. Simms in the Frontiersmen of New York.* If the same person can publish two versions of the matter which differ materially, and publish them in successive years, what can we expect from different historians writing perhaps a generation apart! In preparing this history, I find myself confronted by the same difficulties that my predecessors have encountered:- namely, the absence of records. To fill in the gaps in my story, I must either draw upon my opinion and my imagination; or I must confess that I do not know. Although I trust but little in local tradition, I shall introduce a number of items of this character, which may be fully as unreliable as those mentioned by others.

GEOGRAPHICAL DIVISIONS.

As there have been numerous changes in the names of the settlements, districts and towns, it has been thought best to indicate the geographical divisions, and changes of the county lines, of the territory in the vicinity of the church. Tryon County was formed from Albany County, on March 12, 1772; the name was changed to Montgomery County, on April 2, 1784. Herkimer and Otsego Counties were set off from Montgomery County, on April 2, 1784. Fulton County was formed from Montgomery County, on April 18, 1838. Tryon County was divided into six districts. "These districts were Mohawk, adjoining Albany [County], Canajoharie on the south side of the Mohawk, and Palatine on the north, extending up the river to Little Falls, German Flats and Kingsland, still farther up the river, and Old England District, west of the Susquehanna. The first 5 of these districts were formed March 24, 1772. On the 8th of March 1773, the original name Stone Arabia was changed to Palatine." * Within a few years, the names of German Flats and Kingsland Districts, were exchanged through the misunderstanding of a map-maker.

* See Appendix I, page xliii.

The site of this church was within the limits of the Palatine District. This district was formed as the town of Palatine, on March 7, 1778; it embraced the territory on the north side of the Mohawk, extending from Anthony's Nose to Little Falls, and reached northward to Canada. The town of Manheim was set off from Palatine, on March 3, 1797; on April 7, 1817, it was annexed to Herkimer County. The western part of what remained of Palatine, usually spoken of as the "Upper" part, was formed into the town of Oppenheim, on March 18, 1808. When Fulton County was formed, the new county line, bisected the town of Oppenheim; the most northerly two thirds of the town retained the name and became a part of the new county. The remainder, on April 18, 1838, was formed into the town of St. Johnsville; the name of this town was taken from the Postal Village of St. Johnsville, the principal settlement within the town.

HARRISON'S PATENT.

The map of Harrison's Patent, which is reproduced on the next page, is from the maps prepared for the Commissioners of Forfeitures; the names of the lot holders are as they appear upon the map, and are as they stood after the close of the Revolutionary War. The southerly part of a patent granted to George Klock, William Nellis and others, on Dec. 21, 1754, is also shown upon this map. Lot No. 33 of the Klock and Nellis Patent, probably contained the site of the first Youker's Bush Church, of which more will be said later. Attention is also called to "P. Van Dreesen's Patent", as it appears upon this Note. Some of the pages of the record are too long to transcribe on a single page of the copy. The remainder of such pages have a letter before the page number of the copy, which indicates that the part transcribed on this page is to complete an original page.

Notes for page 19, omitted there on account of lack of room.

Entry No. 1. Infant, Samuel born the 7th December 1782. The last figure of the date is blotted; it may be "1783".

Entry No. 4. Witnesses. Johannes Countermann; Maria, wife.

Entry No. 7. Infant, Elisabeth, born Oct. 11, 1789.

Notes for page 20, omitted there on account of lack of room.

Entry No. 1. This entire entry in the original record, is written upside down, by turning the book over. Obviously it is the record of baptism of an illegitimate child. There are a number of other entries following in this record, which were also written upside down by Dominie Dysslin. While the other entries are not as complete in detail as this one, there seems to be every reason to believe, that this was the method adopted by Dominie Dysslin, for recording the baptisms of illegitimate children. On account of the difficulty in removing carbon sheets from the typewriter, it was not possible to transcribe the "upside down" entries as they appear in the original record. The translation of entry No. 1 follows:

November 19th, was baptized in Yukersbusch, a child called Elisabeth, born November 13, 1789. The mother of the child is Catharina McKieu of Weststeyn, and has declared as father of the child, Ludwig Beck living at Weststein. Baptism witnesses were Frederic Ostrot and Elisabeth Ostrot.

Notes for page 25.

Entry No. 5  This entry is written upside down.

Entry No. 6. Infants, Maria and Anna, Twins
